RCD Single White Sockets

A range of single white RCD protected sockets for new installations or to replace existing sockets. The RCD sockets will provide protection against electric shocks and fires when operating home appliances, gardening equipment, power tools and industrial machines/equipment. Units fully comply with BS7288 and BS1363.

Operation: The RCD units will detect potentially dangerous faults by monitoring the integrity of the mains supply and will break the circuit instantaneously if a fault occurs, minimising the risk of potentially fatal electric shocks. Non-latching and Latching types are available. Non-latching types require manual reset to restore power after the power supply is temporarily lost (a must for power tools). Latching types immediately restore power following a power cut.

Dust Masks with Valve

The mask is made up from a soft inner shell to ensure optimal filtration, with an outer polymesh shell, completely free of metal, to ensure optimal shape retention. The unique Ventex valve system significantly reduces exhalatory resistance and reduces the build up of carbon dioxide leading to a reduction in temperature within the mask. As a result, the wearer can feel comfortable for longer periods. Two masks are available:

- HE2747008: A disposable filtering face piece for protection against fine inert dust particles up to 4xOES
